combination. Also, if you don't want to use these Skins, no problem! This costume pack is designed to be a completely optional addition. If you wish to use something else, please feel free to do so! How to install: Download and unzip the file you wish to use. Leave the folder unzipped with "RWBY: Grimm Eclipse - Team RWBY Timeskip Costume Pack" in the main folder of your game. If your game is already running, the Timeskip Costume Pack will be added automatically. It might take a few minutes to load the skins. What's new: For the most part, these skins are a direct recreation of our original timeskip costumes. The only exception is Ruby and Weiss, which had different proportions for the legs. Here are the details: Timeskip costumes for RWBY In RWBY: Grimm Eclipse, these skins will replace all of your current ones. Timeskip outfits for the main characters Ruby Rose: New Pants + Belt + Cape, the cape of which has been recolored to reflect her infernal ascension (see here to view) Weiss Schnee: New Pants + Cape, the cape of which has been recolored to reflect her infernal ascension (see here to view) Blake Belladonna: New Pants + Cape, the cape of which has been recolored to reflect her infernal ascension (see here to view) Yang Xiao Long: New Shoes + Wig, the wigs of which have been recolored to reflect her infernal ascension (see here to view) Explanation of changes/skin characteristics Ruby Rose The same pants + cape as the original timeskip, but the cape has been recolored to show her infernal ascension. You can already see how this cape looks at this link. Note that the cape IS NOT featured in the videos. 1st time around Weiss and Blake The same pants + cape as the original timeskip, the only difference being that it's a recolored version of the cape from the original. You can already see how

Lost in the woods, far from the towns, villages and services are the great outdoors. Beyond the reach of man, the untamed wild beckons the flyfisher, the angler and the bush pilot. Small time flying in the UK is an addictive, brilliant alternative to modern day air travel. Just take your microlights, ultralights or helicopters off-road, where the sky's the limit! Fly over historic cider orchards, take a dip in the crystal clear waters of a freshwater lake or relax on one of the many quaint lakeside villages in the UK. Fly off into the sunset and above the clouds, exploring the huge range of vistas and activities that have made a mark on the aviation history of the UK.

The present invention relates generally to medical guidewires and methods, and more specifically to guidewires and methods adapted for vasodilation prior to placement. Stents are commonly used to treat a variety of problems or conditions, including lesions or damaged or diseased vessels caused by trauma, injury, or endarteritis. Stents may be used in a number of endovascular or intravascular procedures, including those involved in treating blockage of vessels, valve regurgitation, atrial arrhythmias, and septal defects. Stents may be used to treat diseased or damaged vessels, including coronary and cerebral arteries, peripheral arteries, veins, and other vessels. In addition, stents may be placed in biological valves in order to improve the function of the valve. In certain circumstances, stents and other deployment devices may need to be delivered into certain vessels or an organ of a patient. The delivery of the devices into vessels or organs of a patient may present particular challenges. For example, the walls of a vessel or an organ may be particularly thin or fragile. In addition, it may be particularly difficult to deliver stents and other devices into a vessel or an organ of a patient through a sheath which has been introduced into the patient. In such cases, the devices may need to be substantially rigid or fixed to prevent the devices from being pushed out of the sheath during delivery. What are needed are devices and methods that are adapted to provide for the delivery of guidewires and/or stents into vessels or other organs of a patient with improved ease, greater precision, and/or reduced risk of trauma to the vessels or organs of the patient. What are also needed are devices and methods that are adapted to provide for vasodilation at the
